A Federal Study in the Art of Perpetual Motion

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation on Thursday developed an unexpected answer to criticism of its 44-million-dollar loan to the Kaiser-Frazer corporation.

Harvey J. Gunderson, RFC director, appeared before the House-Senate Economics subcommittee to face questions fired by Senator Douglas, Illinois Democrat. One Washington dispatch gave the following report:

"The RFC director told the lawmakers the way to reduce his agency's operations is to 'free equity capital' by removing double taxation of corporate dividends. When that is done, he declared, RFC loans to business will shrink to almost nothing."

The quoted paragraph is from the Wall Street Journal, financial daily.

It should be explained to the average reader that "double taxation" refers to this situation: On money you collect for salary, merchandise profit, rent, or any other normal business operation you pay federal income tax only once; but if you own common or preferred stock in a corporation — and all big concerns and many small ones are corporations — you pay federal income tax twice, first the corporation income tax, and then your personal income tax on dividends from said corporation.

So heavy is this double taxation that the lowest-bracket salaried worker paying any income tax at all would, if he owned corporation stock, be paying over per cent of his share of corporate earnings in federal income tax.

Obviously there has been a steady drift of wealth away from "risk capital" — common and preferred stocks — into single-tax securities such as bonds. A bond produces interest instead of dividends, and interest being an expense charged against a corporation's operations it bears no income tax — except the one tax that the individual pays with his personal return.

What RFC Director Gunderson refers to in his appeal to "free equity capital" now becomes clear. Unless the man who wants his money in a new venture is given an incentive — such as the wealthy people who have their fortunes in bonds, how is any new venture going to be started?

Your correspondent has had something to say on many occasions about the federal government's queer policy of attacking monopoly with words but aiding monopoly with actual deeds.

Corporate double-taxation helps the strong but hurts the weak.

But strangest of all facts is the one which we now derive from RFC Director Gunderson's statement on the Kaiser-Frazer matter:

While one arm of government is extinguishing risk capital with tax policies another arm of government is levying additional taxes in order to supply risk capital through the RFC.

It is a marvelous example of perpetual motion.

And it will keep right on going until Common John Citizen gets good and tired of prices that his own money never catches up with.

Panthers Come From Behind to Tie Bobcats

After being soundly thrashed during the first half and trailing 21 points the rough, bruising Magnolia Panthers came roaring back the second half to gain a 21-21 tie with the Hope Bobcats. They were aided by recovering four Hope fumbles inside the Bobcat 15 yard line.

Hold such an advantage the Bobcats were naturally confident opening the third period and the Panthers' heaviest team to face Hope in season, apparently "Lowered the hilt" and when the game ended four Hope starters were on the sidelines with injuries and one is still in the hospital today.

Roger Neal, swift of the Bobcat backfield, sustained a bad sprain while Garrett, Watson, Hudleston and Bruner are nursing painful bruises. Neal is still in the local hospital, but Dr. MacKenzie said today he had no fractures and would be all right.

The first half was all Bobcats with Roger Neal going 10 yards for a reverse for the first score. Nix picked up extra point.

The next tally came minutes later. Hope was on the Panther 15 but a 15-yard penalty set them back to the 30 where Nix tossed a pass to Beasley for a touchdown. Late in the second period Wayne England, on a beautiful run, went 30 yards to score.

Aided by a 50-yard run by Wesley Huddleston the Bobcats were again on the Panther 1-yard line when the half ended.

The next half belonged to Magnolia all the way. The Bobcats fumbled every time they got the ball — four of them recovered by Magnolia within the Hope 15-yard line. Halfback Beasley went 9 yards for the first Panther score.

Boggeson plunged through the center for the second tally and Farrar passed to Perry for the third touchdown with only a minute remaining.

Hope made 5 first downs to 9 for Magnolia; The Bobcats gained 175 yards rushing to 171 for Panthers; Hope completed 2 of 4 passes for 23 yards, had two intercepted. Magnolia completed 1 of 10 with 20 yards and had one interception. Magnolia had 80 yards. Hope recovered one. Magnolia fumble, the Panthers recovered 4 Hope fumbles.

The Bobcat end the season here Thanksgiving Day, against the Nashville Scappers.

Truman Hopes to Give Aid to Iran

Washington, Nov. 19 — (UP) — President Truman said last night he hoped to help Iran become the western world's strong "right flank" — presumably against communism.

Offering a toast to the young Iranian ruler, Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlevi, Mr. Truman said he hopes the two countries can be of "mutual help to each other."

He then mentioned doing "something, we hope, that will make that right flank — about which we spoke today — as strong as we hope the left and center will be."

This was an apparent reference to the drive to help Soviet expansion through the alliance of Western Nations in the North Atlantic.

Mr. Truman's remarks were made at state dinner given in his honor by the Iranian monarch.

The Shah said his 40th annual conference with the President yesterday covered the whole field of relations between the two nations including a discussion of increased U. S. aid to Iran. Secretary of State Acheson was present at the talks.

Since arriving here Wednesday, the Iranian ruler has made frank overtures for help in further strengthening his 115,000-man army. His country, a southern neighbor of the Soviet Union, is accused by Western diplomats as a bulwark against the advance of communism in the Middle East.

Although the 57-year-old casino operator was reputed to have carried large sums of money, Detective Sgt. Michael Salonsian declared: "It couldn't have been robbery."

"It must have been revenge," the police officer added.

Fitzgerald, co-operator of the big downtown gambling house, the Nevada Club, was shot down as he started to leave his home for work at about 11:45 p.m.

Both shots were fired into his bath at close range.

Chief of Police L. R. Greson said:

"It does not look like a robbery attempt."

The chief would not amplify his statement with any indication of the motive.

Fitzgerald, a former night club operator in Macomb County, Mich., was found by his wife shortly after the blast of the shotgun awoke many residents in his exclusive southwest Reno neighborhood.

His wife, Meta, about 38, said she ran out of the house to the garage and found Fitzgerald slumped on the floor.

He apparently had just opened the garage's overhead doors. The light in the building was on, outlining his body in the dark sky. "He was a beautiful target," said Mrs. Fitzgerald.

Close associates said Fitzgerald now has no business or other connections in Michigan or other parts of the East.

"Why, he is like a banker," said one who would not permit use of his name. "He doesn't smoke or drink and is one of the best business men in Reno."

A year ago last August, Fitzgerald and his partner, Danny Sullivan, 60, pleaded guilty in Macomb county to gambling charges.

They were fined only about $1,000 but additional $51,000 was assessed in court costs.

The fine and costs were levied after the two had agreed to return to Michigan to face grand jury indictment. They had fought extradition in Nevada courts all the way from the Reno justice of the peace court to the estate Supreme court.

Fitzgerald was taken to Washoe Medical center where at 2:30 a.m. He was still receiving blood transfusions.

Doctors said the blasts apparently damaged Fitzgerald's spinal cord, paralyzing his legs.

U. S. oil and gas wells now produce about two billion barrels of crude oil and six trillion cubic feet of gas yearly.

Free Thanksgiving Meal for Saratoga and Okay Students

By Mrs. Jack L. Ferguson
The regular monthly meeting of the Saratoga Optimist P. T. A. was held Thursday evening, Nov. 17, at the Okay grade school.

The session was opened by all members repeating the Lord's Prayer, followed by a program in which students from different grades participated.

After reports of the officers, Mrs. Whibley presented the devotional and Mr. Claude Stewart, newest member of the faculty, gave a talk on the subject, "Children Need to Believe."

During the business session the possibility of bringing a Radio String band to Okay-Saratoga under the auspices of the P. T. A. was discussed.

Also plans were made to have a P. T. A. Christmas party the night of December 15, at the Saratoga High school gym, and a committee was appointed to work out the details involved.

It was also decided that the P. T. A. would make and sell birthday calendars and a committee was appointed to sell the calendars in various sections of the school district.

The motion was made and passed for the P. T. A. to provide a free Thanksgiving dinner to all students of the Okay-Saratoga school Nov. 23.

The room count was won by the eight and twelfth graders.

The meeting was dismissed following Jacque Williams, Peggy Starnes, Stewart.

Teams May Be Named TodayNew York, Nov. 19.—(P)—By sundown tonight, the participants in the Rose bowl might be decided or the situation could be completely muddled.If California's unbeaten Golden Bears stop Stanford at Palo Alto before a bulging mob of 90,000 they will have qualified to act as host team. It also would be their 10th straight win.But if Stanford comes out on top plus a U. C. L. A. victory over Southern California at Los Angeles both the Bears and Uclans will have 6-1 conference records for the year's work.As for the Big Ten representative, that would be more complicated.
If Ohio State turns back Michigan at Ann Arbor before a throng of 97,000 it will automatically go to the Rose bowl. Simplicity.Should Michigan beat Ohio State and Minnesota beat Wisconsin, the Buckeyes and the Gophers would be deadlocked for the Western conference lead, each with 4-2 marks.Minnesota probably would get the nod from the powers that be on the strength of its 27-0 conquest over Ohio State earlier in the season.
Michigan, the defending champion,
cannot go again this year, after having played there last year.As a matter of fact, the chances of matters becoming complicated are mighty good. Stanford is given a good underdog against Michigan.In the Southwest conference, the teams also will be fighting for a spot—this time the Cotton bowl.If Rice wins its fifth straight at the expense of Texas Christian, it will meet the Buckeyes in the 50-yard line.

puted title in 12 years. All they have to do is beat Texas Christian at Fort Worth while SouthernMethodist puts the Indian sign on Baylor's once-defeated Bears here.Rice and SMU are solid favorites to turn these little tricks. Rice is a 10-1-point favorite, SMU is given a 7-1-point bulge. But knowing how unpredictable Southwest conference football can get at the time of the year, officials have arranged to play the games anyway.Also, Rice and SMU are pro football events which will turn into a wrestling match unless there's a critical interpretation of the rule about handlingdefenders instead of merely checking and hand-fighting until the play develops, are moving laterally
to continue such tactics.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Nov. 19.—(P)—Round

Fred Walters, who had to walk farther than usual when he referred that Tulane-Vanderbilt game last week, claims football is getting too rugged for some officials.Fred, whose ordinary business as a baseball manager keeps him on a bench, predicted: "Unless coaches, players and fans undergoa drastic change of attitude, the better officials are going to find easier ways of spending their Saturday afternoons."Maybe that's the spot to introduce two-platoon officiating—or at least add a knockdown timekeeper to the list.And, cagier Jim Conzelman was to pro football eventually

That's The "L" of It

Just by way of emphasizing the headaches connected with football, Lehigh's Charlie Moravec forward-wards an account of a conversation between ticket Manager Paul Short and an irate ex-football captain.Should Baylor take its two remaining games it would, in the case of a Rice loss to TCU today, win the title and for it should Rice beat TCU. In the event of a tie for the title, precedent says that the team beating the other in regular season play gets the Cotton bowl.Should Southern Methodist win its two remaining games and Rice lose its two, Southern Methodist would take the title since it has lost one and tied one.
